Concerts Planned for Badin Baptist Church

It was a chance meeting that brought David Mills and Vanessa Mullinix together. Mills, retired Principal Tubist and Principal Music Librarian of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra, was in Badin to celebrate his 50th Albemarle High School reunion. He dropped in to Loafers and Legends where The Cottage House owner Mullinix was relaxing with friends. A chance remark about the great acoustics of the Badin Baptist Church resulted in plans for Mills' group, Charlotte Festive Brass, to present a one hour Christmas program at the church featuring brass and organ. The event is at 7 PM on Sunday, November 25, 2018.

Tuesday, December 11, 2018 will feature a Christmas concert by the Stanly County Chorale and more concerts are planned for the future.

"The Baptist Church is very happy to go along with these concerts," says Martha Garber, church council member. "It's a perfect venue for cultural community events." See more details in the October Villager.

Shaking the Machine

Think of government as a vending machine. Put in taxes, out come services. Unhappy with the service? Shake the machine. But State Bill 531 to de-annex the prison and create a financial crisis for the town warranted more than a shake from the citizens of Badin. They bombarded government officials with telephone calls, emails and social media. They stopped the bill in its tracks. Let us always be ready to use more than an annoyed shake to control what comes out of that government vending machine. Let us stay informed through Better Badin, through the Town Council and through friendly community gatherings.

Teens Making A Difference Celebrates 25 Years

1993 was a big year for Badin Mayor pro-tem Deloris Chambers. She ran for and was elected to Badin Town Council and, with the help of her sister, Valerie Tyson, she started a group called Teens Making a Difference. Today, Deloris is Badin Mayor pro-tem, and Teens Making a Difference is celebrating its 25th year. Just a few of the activities for Badin teens hosted by the organization are lectures, field trips, basketball tournaments and community clean-up. In July, current members and community supporters gathered at Shiloh Baptist Church for a reunion ceremony and banquet.

Community Input Survey on www.badin.org

There is a community input survey on the town's website, www.badin.org. Badin Town Council's goal is to gather public input on various Badin topics. Responses will be considered during the town's ongoing goal-making processes during the coming year. Badin residents are urged to complete the 10 to 15 questions of the survey.
